

Summer Institute: Racial Equity Impact Analysis Example

- The state's Department of Health and Human Services is preparing to issue a Request for Proposals for a new child abuse prevention funding opportunity.
- The new opportunity requires communities to implement an evidence-based or evidence-informed child abuse prevention program for families identified at risk for child maltreatment.
- To apply, communities must:
  - Demonstrate need in their communities for additional child abuse prevention programming;
  - Describe their current capacity to implement evidence-based programming;
  - Provide a description of their approach to data use and quality improvement; and
  - Identify a sustainability plan to continue providing the program after the grant funds end in three years.
- The Department of Health and Human Services develops a scoring rubric for reviewing applications. Priority is given to applicants who:
  - Can demonstrate significant need for the programming in their community;
  - Have a successful history of implementing evidence-based programs;
  - Use a standardized quality improvement methodology, such as the Model for Improvement; and
  - Identify a funding mechanism to sustain programming after the end of the grant.
